1. Roll of thunder, hear me cry	Mildred D Taylor

2. Wonder	R. J. Palacio
3. Charlie NUMBERS and the man on the moon	Ben & Tonya Merrick

Wonder

There are many characters, but the most important are, Summer, Mom, Dad, Via, Jack, Julian, Mr. Tushman, Mr. Browne, Miranda, Charlotte, but most importantly Auggie (who the book is based on). In the story Auggie thinks that everyone will stop and stare because of the way that his face is (Auggie was born with face abnormalities). It was 5th grade and it was the 1st time Auggie had ever gone to a real school and at first he thought even the thought of school was too hard to bare. In my opinion Auggie was perfect but other people ~~did~~ had other thoughts. They thought Auggie was UGLY and that he should go to a school for disabled children. When Auggie was smarter than most of the kids in his grade the only think that (they thought) was wrong with him is that he had face abnormality

I loved Wonder sooo much because it shows a normal boy face horrific insults. My favorite part of the book is when Jack sticks up for Auggie. Something that got me mad is when ~~of~~ on the retreat and older kids ripped Auggie's hearing aid right off of his head.

He then ran into the dining room and jumped onto the grandmother's lap. They waited a little while and saw the witches eating. Then, one by one, they all started turning into mice. The narrator and the grandmother lived happily ever after.

My favorite part of the book was when the mouse/papa put the serum into the food and when the witches turned into mice. This was my essay on the book "The Witches". I hoped you enjoyed.

into a mouse by the witches. The narrator went to his grandmother's room and told her what happened. She was amazed at what happened. The narrator and his grandmother made a plan to take the serum from the ~~Grand~~ High ~~Witch's~~ Witch's room and go to the dinner room and wait for them to come and order and the narrator would sneak into the kitchen as the mouse and put the serum into the food. With the help of the grandmother, the narrator snuck into the Witch's room and got the serum. Then he and his grandmother ~~sat~~^{sat} at a table in the dining room. The narrator jumped out of the grandmother's purse and ran to the kitchen. He saw the witches at a table and he heard what their waiter said to the cook and the mouse poured it in.

My favorite book I read this summer is called "The Witches" by Roald Dahl. This is my favorite book because it is funny, it has a great way of telling the story, and I love the adventure in it.

The main character is a 7 year old boy. He is the narrator and unfortunately he doesn't have a name. Other ~~important~~ important characters are Bruce Jenkins, he becomes the narrator's friend towards the middle of the book, ~~the~~ the narrator's grandmother who knows a lot about witches, and the grand high witch, who tries to turn all kids into mice with a magical formula.

~~The~~ The book is about a kid and his grandmother staying at a hotel. At this hotel, there were also witches staying there too. ~~The~~ The witches were planning to make all kids into mice with a magical formula. They had this meeting in the grand auditorium. The narrator overheard what the witches were planning. He was so frightened. The witches smelled the narrator out, since they can do that, and found him. They got him and tried the serum on him and it worked! The narrator was turned into a mouse. He met a kid who was also turned
